

New European Democracies Project

CSIS' East Europe Project has taken a new name—New European Democracies Project—and has united with the Europe Program.

The fall of the iron curtain in 1989 and the scope of EU enlargement and integration underscore the need to reconceptualize the European family. Eastern Europe has undergone enormous social and political upheaval, resulting in the emergence of new democracies, some of which remain fragile, but all of which look toward greater integration into the global economy and security system. These momentous political and economic transformations need to be reflected in CSIS's survey and analysis of Europe-wide issues. As a result, the East Europe Project at the Center has been renamed the New European Democracies Project (NEDP), led by Janusz Bugajski, and has been united with the Europe Program, directed by CSIS Executive Vice President Robin Niblett. Anchoring the study of the European region to a broader pan-European agenda will ensure a more extensive, comprehensive and multi-disciplinary approach to European issues and to transatlantic relations. Working as part of the Europe Program and its Initiative for a Renewed Transatlantic Partnership, the New European Democracies Project will focus on the influence of new EU entrants on EU and U.S. policies, as well as on the continuing extension of democracy across a wider Europe.

Go to NEDP's Website

Go to Europe Program's Website

Go to CSIS Website

NEDP Periodicals

Select Briefing—a weekly newsletter, which highlights news in the new EU member states, as well as EU aspirants.

Europe East—a quarterly newsletter with analytical essays on issues affecting Eastern Europe.

U.S.-Montenegrin Policy Briefing - disseminates analysis and news regarding reform and policy decisions in Montenegro.

Click here to subscribe to NEDP publications

CSIS New European Democracies Project Staff

1800 K Street, NW
Washington, DC 20006
Phone: (202) 887 0200, ext. 3398
Fax: (202) 775 3199
NEDP@csis.org

Janusz Bugajski – Director of NEDP, and Senior Fellow, Europe Program
Ilona Teleki – Deputy Director of NEDP, and Fellow, Europe Program
Milena Staneva – Research Associate, NEDP, Europe Program

Victor Jackovich—Senior Associate, NEDP
Theodore Russell – Adjunct Fellow, NEDP
Robin Shepherd – Adjunct Fellow, NEDP